Three Fridays the 13th During 1956;
Also Leap Year

THE NEW YEAR 1956 is coming up very shortly and it looks like a bad year. Three Fridays the Thirteenth and it's also Leap Year.

Timmo just got through looking through the 1956 calendar and I've come up with a few pertinent facts which are not too enlightening because you could sit down right now and fish 'em out yourself. And besides, what do you have when you're through?

IN CASE you want to start working out some antidotes right now, the Fridays the Thirteenth will come in January (on Jan. 13), in April (on April 13) and July (on July 13). We almost made it in September, when there will be a Friday the Fourteenth, in October, when there'll be Friday the Twelfth, and December, where there will be Friday the Fourteenth.

AFTER NEW YEAR'S, when we will observe Monday, Jan. 2 as the holiday because the holiday falls on Monday, we'll have no double holidays the rest of the year except for Labor Day. Wonder why it is? Seems like every year we get two days off in a row for Labor Day.

Schools and businesses alike will get off this year for Lincoln's birthday anniversary. It falls on Sunday. But Washington's anniversary will be on Wednesday and about everybody, I suppose, will be working. It doesn't show up on the calendar but the kiddies will get off on February 21, because a teacher's meeting is scheduled for that date.

MARCH will be a wonderful month, because there will be five paydays for Timmo. Yep, there are five Saturdays. There also are five paydays in June, September and December, and it is fine to have an extra one after Christmas, especially.

APRIL FOOL'S DAY will be on Sunday this year, but don't take your pranks to church with you. Memorial Day will be on Wednesday, May 30, and the Fourth of July will be on July 4, also a Wednesday. Labor Day, which is always on the first Monday in September, will be on Monday next year. Monday, Sept. 5.

VETERANS DAY, formerly Armistice Day, will be on Sunday this coming year, and Thanksgiving will be on Thursday, Nov. 22. CHRISTMAS will be on Tuesday.

Three Dionne Sisters Greeted On Return Home

CALLANDER, Ont. (U.P.) — Three of the Dionne quintuplets, Yvonne, Annette and Cecile, arrived home early today and were affectionately greeted by their parents.

Olivia Dionne Jr., 19, called for her three sisters at their Montreal apartment Thursday night on his way home for a weekend leave from the RCAF station at St. Hubert, Que.

He said the girls were happy to be home and warmly exchanged hugs and kisses with their parents. The parents were glad to see the girls and had been waiting for them, he said.

The airman said he didn't know what the family plans were for the weekend and that he had to be back at base Tuesday.

The warmth of the family greeting indicated that while the girls hurried home for New Year's to face their angry papa and "get it over with" he may not have been as angry with them as they thought for asserting their newly found independence in Montreal.

They sneaked out of their bachelor apartment there Thursday night to go home. Early Thursday, they were reported planning to stay in Montreal until their father's anger cooled, but they later announced through a spokesman they had changed their minds.

The girls and their brother reached Callander after a night-long 400-mile drive over ice and slush-covered roads—an ordeal the recently ill Marie was unable to face. She remained behind in their Montreal apartment.

Eisenhower Denies Charge By Khrushchev

Says He is Not Exponent of Interference

KEY WEST, Fla. (U.P.) — President Eisenhower today hurled back at the leaders of Communist Russia flat denial that he is an exponent of interference in Middle Europe.

The President said Soviet Communist leader Nikita Khrushchev was wrong in his analysis of American foreign policy.

In the face of new blasts from the Russian political high command, the President refused to change position and took a distinctly dim view of what the Russians had been saying in recent days.

Mr. Eisenhower said this country would not retreat from its foreign policy encouragement of Middle European peoples to defect from Soviet control.

"The peaceful liberation of the captive peoples has been, and is, until success is achieved, will continue to be a major goal of United States foreign policy," the President said in a statement released by his press secretary, James C. Hagerty.

Khrushchev said in an impassioned speech Thursday to the Soviet Presidium that the President and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles had committed "crude interference" in Communist East Europe by their Christmas broadcasts to the European peoples.

The President commented on the Middle European situation as he conferred for several hours on his State of the Union message with his brother, Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, president of Pennsylvania State University, and Kevin McCann, the chief White House speech writer who flew in from Washington this morning.

Today's program appeared less leisurely than that of his first full day Thursday, which he spent mostly in a session of practice golf swings, a long stroll about the base, and in work on two paintings.

After clearing weather lured him from the indoor easel, the President used the opportunity to take his first full golf swings since his heart attack.

The President seemed in a pleasant, relaxed mood during the hour's walk in which he was conducted about the base by his naval aide, Cmdr. Edward L. Beach, and trailed by reporters.

Beach pointed out a route along the quarters once occupied by ex-President Truman and which now serve as the home of the base commandant, Rear Adm. H. H. Henderson.

Mr. Eisenhower paused briefly and said to Beach:

"You lead on — the sign says no passage and I don't want to get shot."

Beach, a former submarine commander of imperturbable dignity but not without humor, replied drily. "The admiral lives here and if he shoots you, he's got to answer to me."

Dave E. Evans Announces Candidacy For Representative

Dave E. Evans

Dave E. Evans, 302 East Poplar, today announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for representative in the Illinois legislature from the 59th district.

Evans, who is proprietor of the E. & R. Taste-Freez here, has long been active in Republican circles, having been county chairman for six years and committeeman from the first precinct for twelve years. He was a candidate for the same office two years ago, his first venture into the district campaign level.

The primary election will be held Tuesday, April 10th, 1956.

Pennsylvania, Indiana to Enter Ike in Primaries

WASHINGTON (U.P.)—Action was promised in two more states today to put President Eisenhower's name on presidential primary ballots despite his continued silence on his 1956 intentions.

Indiana and Pennsylvania were the latest states in which moves were announced to enter Mr. Eisenhower's name. Similar announcements already have come from New Hampshire and Wisconsin.

Pennsylvania's primary law permits presidential preference voting which is not binding on the national convention delegates. The state's GOP leaders decided Thursday to enter Mr. Eisenhower for the primary April 20. The President's consent is not required.

Indiana has a new presidential primary law in which presidential candidates can be entered for the vote May 8. Delegates are bound to vote for the winner on the first ballot at the national convention.

Gov. George N. Craig of Indiana said he would personally head a move to get Mr. Eisenhower's name in the GOP primary and that he expected the President to agree. The deadline for entering the primary is March 29.

Indiana law does not specify whether a candidate's consent is needed before his name can be placed on the ballot. Craig said he would ask the State Election Commission for a ruling on this point. He said he believes consent should be required.

"This is all predicated on the assumption the President will be a candidate," Craig said. "I think he will be."

May Be Prelude To Invasion of Matsu, Quemoy

Raipei Predictions Report Reds Ready To Rekindle Crisis

TAIPEI, Formosa (U.P.) — The Chinese Communists were reported today to be bombarding both ends of the Nationalist off-shore island chain in an apparent prelude to an invasion of Matsu, Quemoy or both.

Heavy Nationalist Chinese air and naval patrols were reported in the Matsu area where several naval skirmishes have taken place in the past week. Nationalist sources believed an attempt was more likely against Matsu or its satellite island of Kaoteng.

Sketchy reports received here told of continued artillery duels between Nationalist and Communist gunners at Quemoy Island, southern anchor of Chiang Kai-shek's island defense chain just off the mainland, with the Reds pumping in 700 shells Thursday alone.

Sporadic Communist shelling was directed against Kaoteng in the Matsu Island group 150 miles from the nearest Communist position and serves as an outpost for the main Matsu island.

Up until late today there were no reports of naval action around Matsu although battles were reported in the area Tuesday and Wednesday night.

There were widespread predictions in Taipei the Communists were ready to rekindle the Formosa crisis, and one newspaper predicted an attack against Matsu within a week. Other sources believed the Reds would attack in mid-January.

There were no predictions of an immediate attack against Formosa, backed up by the U. S. 7th Fleet and by U. S. air power which can be flown in from Okinawa and the Philippines. American sources thought there might be Red harassment to bolster the Communist position in the Geneva Sino-American talks.

Red Air Fleet Poised

Nationalist sources said the Reds now have latest model Soviet-built MIG-17s ready for action and that they were working on three more jet bombers to bring the total in Fukien Province opposite Formosa to eight.

Unofficial sources estimated the Communists had 1,200 Red war planes of all types near Formosa, including MIG-15s and twin-engine Russian jet bombers. Total Red air strength was put at 2,000 planes.

Gen. Ben O. Davis, American Air Force chief in Formosa, called the Red air threat "real." He said some of the bases were not manned but that the Reds could move in aircraft overnight.

Government sources have estimated Communist army strength available for an attack on the Nationalist islands at one million men, with several hundred thousand in the area now, including marine units and tanks.

Eisenhower to Send Representative To 'Sink or Swim' Meeting Saturday

Congressman Kenneth J. Gray of West Frankfort announced today that he has been notified by Sherman Adams, Presidential Assistant, that President Eisenhower has personally directed a member of the Area Development Service of the United States Department of Commerce to personally represent him at the "Sink or Swim" meeting to be held in West Frankfort, Dec. 31 at 2 p. m., at the West Frankfort Community high school gym, and to make a full report to the President on his return to Washington.

Mayors of several area cities have issued proclamations declaring Dec. 31 "Sink or Swim" Day in their respective communities and motor caravans are being organized to transport people to the West Frankfort rally.

"The 'Sink or Swim' rally will give the people of the area an opportunity to present their case to government officials in person," Congressman Gray said.

The Area Development Service of the United States Department of Commerce is charged with the responsibility of aid to economically distressed areas of the country, Gray said. The congressman said President Eisenhower has indicated that some type of distressed area program would be set up and he (Congressman Gray) is doing everything possible to put southern Illinois first in line for prompt recognition and attention for such a program.

"That," said Gray, "is the basic motive behind the 'Sink or Swim' rally at West Frankfort—to get economic aid for the area."

The congressman said he has invited every Federal and State official from President Eisenhower and Governor Stratton on down to the "Sink or Swim" rally and said that nearly all have indicated that they will attend or send a representative.

Stratton told Gray in a letter he would be unable to attend the mass meeting at West Frankfort Saturday.

The governor said during the three years of his administration highway building south of U. S. 50 totaled $2,681,310, including $9,804,393 for labor.

Stratton said capital outlay for other state projects totaled $6,344,336 from July 1, 1953, to June 30, 1955.

He said appropriations for work in the current biennium ending June 30, 1957, will amount to $9,868,391 for non-highway jobs.

Mrs. Zavis said she took a 25 caliber automatic pistol and shot 9-year-old John Richard behind the ear, as he was watching television in the front room. He apparently died instantly.

Then, the woman said, she went to the bedroom and shot 21-month-old Kevin through the heart. She said she carried his body to the front room and placed it beside John's, "because I wanted them to be together."

Then she apparently sat quietly in the kitchen until her husband, 32-year-old John B. Zavis, came home from his job as a varnish maker foreman for U. S. Paint, Lacquer and Chemical Co.

Zavis said his wife was in a private mental hospital last February.

Attorney Damron at Home to Recuparate From Surgery at Mayo

Atty. W. W. Damron of this city, who a few weeks ago underwent surgery for the second time in several months at the Mayo clinic at Rochester, Minn., is recuperating at his home.

Mr. Damron flew Wednesday night to Evansville, from where he was brought to Harrisburg.

He said that he must recuperate for a while, after which he will make an announcement regarding the time he will resume his law practice.

Carmi Sheriff to Offer Chauffeur Service to Imbibers

CARMI, Ill. — Sheriff Kenneth Cole plans to offer free chauffeur service to New Year's Eve imbibers in an attempt to cut down on accidents in White County.

The sheriff says that any person who feels he should not get behind the wheel of his car after a party may call the sheriff's office for assistance. The sheriff or a deputy will drive the person home or escort him to his residence.

Cole declared that "although I want it made understood I do not encourage wild celebrations, my deputies and I will do everything in our power to keep from having to haul in drivers to face drunken driving charges. If we can prevent any minor or fatal accidents, we will feel that our efforts are well worth while."

Sunday School Teacher Held in Million Shortage

NORFOLK, Va. (U.P.) — A "generous and kindly" Sunday school teacher was held today on grand larceny charges involving a loan firm's shortage estimated at one million dollars or more.

Miss Minnie C. Mangum, 52, was arrested Thursday after a month of auditing of her multi-million dollar records as secretary-treasurer of the Commonwealth Building and Loan Assn.

Unable to make a $25,000 bond, she was held overnight in jail pending a hearing today in police court. She told a reporter, "I have nothing to say."

Miss Mangum was immediately charged with grand larceny of $100,000 during the last year but state officials and others estimated audits of previous years might disclose shortages totaling more than $1,000,000.

BLA President Roy F. Phillips said a detailed "verification of records of investors and borrowers" already in progress might require two or three months. His estimate of the total shortage was $900,000.

Miss Mangum was widely known in Norfolk for her personal generosity and her kindly interest in others. A neighbor said, "anyone in trouble could go to Miss Minnie and she would take care of him."

She recently donated $8,800 to a building fund of the Port Norfolk Baptist Church, where she has taught Sunday school classes for 15 years. The church immediately returned her check to the loan company.

Authorities did not state the particular personal use Miss Mangum made of the allegedly embezzled money but said she admitted using misappropriated money to buy eight houses valued at $50,000.

Authorities said she quickly turned the houses, including her own modest residence, over to the state.

215 Will Help State Police on Highway Patrol

Governor Acts To Avoid Repetition Of Holiday Slaughter

SPRINGFIELD (U.P.) — Gov. William G. Stratton has ordered out about 215 National Guardsmen to help state police "avoid or avert" a New Year's repetition of the Christmas weekend traffic slaughter.

The governor also asked that between 200 and 300 auxiliary police trained under the civil defense program volunteer for weekend emergency highway patrol.

Stratton said the assigning of more than 500 National Guardsmen and auxiliary police, plus ordering state police on 12-hour shifts instead of eight-hour shifts, would almost triple the number of patrols on the highways this weekend.

"There were 47 people killed on the highways and streets during the last holiday weekend," Stratton said. "That is a real emergency and if other causes... were responsible for this many deaths, we certainly wouldn't hesitate to use every means available to halt its repeating itself."

The Chicago Motor Club predicted 17 traffic deaths in the state for the weekend, with 8 in Chicago, 3 in the rest of Cook County and 6 downstate.

Governor Outlines Plan

Stratton studied a United Press list of Christmas weekend fatal accidents with State Traffic Safety Coordinator Robert A. Campbell and State Police Chief Phil M. Brown. Then he summoned State Atty. Gen. Leo M. Boyle.

At a news conference following this meeting, the governor late Thursday outlined the following traffic safety plan for New Year's weekend.

1. The 70-odd men of the 33rd Military Police Co. of the National Guard, stationed at the Northwest Armory in Chicago, will report to the state police Dist. 3 command in Cook County. These military police, some in the unit's jeeps, will aid state police in patrolling highways in Cook and "adjoining counties," where most of the fatal accidents occurred last weekend, Stratton said.

2. One National Guard officer and 10 non-commissioned officers in each of the 13 downstate district state police headquarters, cities will be ordered to report to the district state police commander. Boyle said all the guardsmen would report at 9 a. m. Saturday and would "serve until released" Monday.

1955 One of Deadliest Highway Years on Record

CHICAGO (U.P.) — The National Safety Council revealed today that traffic accidents have killed an estimated 38,500 persons this year, making 1955 one of the deadliest highway years on record.

Ned H. Dearborn, council president, released the figures with the hope that they will sober drivers into caution during the New Year's weekend.

The 1955 toll is the highest since 1941, when an all-time record of 38,969 deaths was set.

It is also 7 per cent and 2,500 lives higher than 1954's 36,000. Only three other times, in 1926, 1937, and 1941, has the count of deaths on the nation's streets and highways passed the 38,000 mark, the council said.

The council said it had counted 34,690 dead in traffic up until the end of November. The estimate of 3,810 more fatalities this month was based on a study of all previous December records, plus the fact that December is always the deadliest month of the year for traffic deaths.

In November, the death count was up a full 10 per cent and the count of 3,680 deaths was the worst record for any November since the record year of 1941.

Let's Not Strangle These

Editorial by Bruce Blossat
Out of President Eisenhower's recent budget discussions have come two administration recommendations that merit the support of Congress and the American people even though they mean spending more money. Very likely their approval would lessen the prospects of a 1956 tax cut.

One proposal is to spend about $700 million more for defense, largely for guided missiles and other
so-called scientific weapons.

The view is growing in government circles that this work deserves the highest priority. Russia is believed to be pressing hard to perfect an intercontinental guided missile, and U. S. officials realize that we cannot run second in this race.

There is no question in the experts' minds that guided missiles
today constitute the "weapons frontier." Any U. S. budget which did not adequately reflect that recognition would be at once unrealistic and filled with peril for this country.

Mr. Eisenhower has made the only reasonable decision that could be made, in the interest of the future security of this nation and the free world.

He has also acted wisely in proposing that the new appropriation for the U. S. Information Agency be upped from the current $5 million dollars to $135 million.

We in this country should really be embarrassed to acknowledge that Russia is outdoing us in propaganda on so many fronts around the world. The Soviet Union is flooding impressionable Asiatic, African and other lands with coun-less books, pamphlets, "news" stories, and the like. Now and then they offer elaborate two-hour color films.

We try to match this flood with skippy black-and-white films, a mere trickle of books and other printed matter, and too few propaganda broadcasts.

Yet we obviously have a far better story to tell the world. The Russians can only offer tyranny in masquerade, and hope that the black garb beneath will not show.
We can spell out the bright story
of freedom at work.

All we need are the tools to do a convincing job. Supplying them in effective number has been long overdue. Mr. Eisenhower's proposal to add $50 million dollars to U.
S. I. A.'s budget is a big stride toward correcting this costly deficiency.

Indestructible Eddie

Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, chairman and general manager of Eastern Air Lines, was America's fabled leading air man in World War I.
When he emerged unscathed from that first great air combat, a legend took root that he was indestructible.

Years later Rickenbacker had moved into an important place in commercial aviation. As a prime factor in the growth and development of Eastern Air Lines, he was a recognized champion of free enterprise and a promoter of progress in flying.

Then, one day in February, 1941,
Eastern had a bad crash in the Atlanta area. Rickenbacker himself was aboard the downed plane, and was seriously hurt. His many admirers kept a vigil at their radio dials, awaiting word that the hero was dead. But he didn't die. He got well. And so the legend grew.

War came, and Rickenbacker's priceless experience was put at his country's disposal. Late in October, 1942, he was flying across the Pacific on a special mission. The plane vanished in the ocean void,
and all aboard were believed dead.

Twenty-four days later a report
was flashed that seemed a miracle:
Captain Rickenbacker, the indestructible man, was alive with some of his comrades. They had been found drifting on a raft in the Far Pacific.

Now his own airline, Eastern,
has added a fresh chapter to the legend. Though he reached the traditional retirement age of 65
this October, Rickenbacker has been signed to a new 10-year management contract and he will go on as before blazing trails in commercial aviation.

Only a foolish man would say it won't happen again when he's 75.

Yes, Sir, It's a Cockeyed World!

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says:
Brownell Prepares Belated
Christmas Package Embarrassing To Democrats; Dr.
White Contradicted His Figures On Heart Attacks In Medical Association Journals;
Mrs. Perle Mesta Meets Her Match.

WASHINGTON—Attorney General has been readying a belated Christmas present for the Democrats in general and Adlai Stevenson in particular. It won't be exactly in the spirit of the Christmas season, however.

He is getting ready to throw the works at Stevenson's campaign manager, James Finnegan of Philadelphia, for allegedly using veterans to buy war surplus goods.

He is also preparing several more indictments of high officials of the Truman administration in connection with tax fixing. In this connection he has also yanked Truman's secretary of the treasury John Snyder out to federal grand juries in St. Louis and Omaha so many times that Snyder might just as well buy a commuter's ticket.

Bird-dog Brownell was the only personal caller on President Eisenhower one day before the Christmas holiday and it is reported he discussed this entire Christmas package for the Democrats at that time.

Brownell's case against Stevenson's campaign manager, Finnegan, dates back to the postwar period when Finnegan formed a corporation including veterans to buy surplus property by using veterans' preference. Brownell has investigated this backward and forward and at one time considered bringing an indictment. He finally concluded that Finnegan was within the law and could not be prosecuted, since the veterans were members of his corporation
and shared in the profits.

Therefore he plans to blast Finnegan, not prosecute.

Note—This writer was a frequent critic of Secretary Snyder when he was in office on the grounds of efficiency. Snyder was diligent but not dishonest.

HEALTH

Heart specialists who have followed the public statements of Dr.
Paul Dudley White on the President's health are a little puzzled
at his latest.

After his last examination of Mr. Eisenhower, Dr. White was asked by a newsmen:

"Doctor, is a person who has had one coronary thrombosis more likely than other people to have a second?"

"Probably a little," Dr. White replied, "but the majority of our patients, as I have said before—and I have looked some of them up, I haven't had time to go through the whole list—the majority do not have second heart attacks."

Heart specialists who are familiar with Dr. White's research find that this does not jibe with his own earlier statements. On previous occasions he has found that 69 per cent who have had heart attacks have them a second time
with fatal results.

Volume 117 of the Journal of the American Medical Association, page 1171, 1941 publishes a study on heart attacks by Bland and White (Drs. Edward F. Bland and Paul D. White). In order to ascertain what happens to those who have heart attacks, Dr. White and Bland studied 162 patients.

"Of these," they reported, "112 (69 per cent) died during the decade
following their acute thrombosis and fifty (31 per cent) survived this period."

Of the 162 who survived their initial attacks, Drs. White and Bland found that 30 died within one year, 74 died within four years and, including these, 112 died within 10 years. Of 55 patients who completely recovered from their initial attacks, 24 died within a decade,

18 from coronary insufficiency.
Thirty-one lived more than 10 years.

Doctors point out that this study was completed in 1941 and dealt with cases that were more serious than the average or they probably would not have come to Dr.

cy of the average case today
should be longer.

However, the apparent contradiction between Dr. White's statement in his press conference and his own writing in the American Medical Association Journal has led to some speculation as to whether he was being entirely frank with the public.

MRS. MESTA'S MATCH

It isn't often that anyone can out-repartee famed party-giver Perle Mesta. The ex-minister to Luxembourg was not only an extremely popular diplomat, but is rapierlike in her conversation.

The other day, however, she was talking to Mrs. Fred Lee, wife of the ex-Civil Aeronautics Administrator regarding whose ouster senators are so vigorously protesting. Mrs. Mesta was telling about her new house on 52nd street in northwest Washington.

"We used to live there," volunteered Mrs. Lee.

"Oh, it's completely changed,"
said Mrs. Mesta. "completely changed. I've done it over entirely. You'd never recognize it."

"We merely camped there," shot back Mrs. Lee demurely.

"PENBASSADOR" TRUMAN??

Secretary of State Dulles has been considering the idea of sending ex-President Harry Truman abroad as a special, high-level envoy to some of the Soviet gains scored by the touring Moscow team of Bulganin and Khrushchev.

Dulles, however, is in something of a dilemma. His ambassadors from all over southeast Asia have been cabling reports on the powerful impact of the two Soviet leaders and urging that a total level American with prestige visit the same areas. Yet Dulles is also being advised that a presidential year is the wrong time to give any Republican recognition to Mr.
Truman.

This writer recently proposed that both Mr. Truman and former President Herbert Hoover be drafted to travel as good-will envoys abroad. To this might also be added the name of Gen. George Marshall, chief of staff during the war, former secretary of state and former secretary of defense.

Marshall, who celebrates his 75th birthday tomorrow, has been abused and derided by Senators McCarthy and Jenner. But in foreign countries he has more respec-
tation than almost any other living American except for our ex-presidents.

Note—For those who want to send General Marshall a birthday
greeting, his address is Leesburg, Virginia.

Senior Unit of Wesleyan Service Guild Holds December Christmas Meeting

The December meeting of the Senior unit of Wesleyan Service Guild of the First Methodist Church was held at the home of Mrs. Paul Tanner. The president, Miss Alice Mount, gave the opening prayer.

A beautiful story of the first Christmas was told by Miss Bernice Patterson as the devotion, following prayer by Mrs. Herman Dunn.

The worship setting, "Christmas Around the World," displayed a miniature village, a home, school, hospital, post office and business house, built around a church and illuminated by candles. In the foreground was a small globe. This was the background for the lesson, "We Would See Jesus—Today," given by Mrs. Earl Dabney.

Fruit cake and coffee with small Christmas cookies as favors were served by Mrs. Tanner, Miss Mount and Miss Jeannette James. The beautiful decorations in the home added to the enjoyment of the evening.

For recreation Christmas greetings and small remembrance gifts were prepared for sick and shut-in members and friends of the church.

In January the unit will have supper together at Wesley Center at 6 o'clock. A short meeting will follow before attending in a group the revival meeting which will be in progress at that time.

Yalta Papers Reveal More Soviet Trickery

WASHINGTON (AP)—Newly published documents on the 1945 Yalta conference today provided further evidence of Soviet trickery while the Russians were pretending friendship with their wartime allies.

It was contained in some 40 additional Yalta documents made public by the State Department. The newly released papers were almost certain to add more fuel to the long Democratic-Republican controversy over the 1945 meeting of the late President Roosevelt, former British Prime Minister Winston Churchill and the late Soviet Premier Josef Stalin.

One of the new documents showed that at almost the time of the Yalta meeting, Averell Harriman, wartime ambassador to Moscow, was finding evidence that U. S.-Russian relations were heading for trouble.

Harriman, now governor of New York and a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, said in an April 2, 1945, message to the President that he had noticed six weeks earlier—which would have been just after the Yalta meeting—that the Russians were curbing their cooperation with the United States.

Another document from Acting Secretary of State Joseph Grew to Secretary of State Cordell Hull at about the time of the Yalta meeting cast light on a Communist falsehood about its designs on China. Grew said a message from Ambassador Patrick Hurley in China reported Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov had insisted "that Russians are not supporting Chinese Communists, who are not Communists at all."

The new documents were obtained from the Roosevelt collection at Hyde Park, the State Department and other government agencies. State Department officials insisted they were of no major significance and did not change "the general picture as presented" when the original Yalta record was first published in galley form last March.

police force will be ordered to weekend duty, and the force will work 12-hour instead of eight-hour shifts.

4. The various state police districts were ordered to contact enough auxiliary civil defense police for weekend duty to double the force, counting both National Guardsmen and auxiliary police.

5. In most cases, one National Guardsman or one auxiliary policeman will be assigned to patrol with one state policeman.

6. The governor ordered state government department directors to make cars and other needed "rolling stock" available to state police during the weekend. Stratton said game wardens and tax investigators over the state have state-owned cars for use if needed.

7. Stratton ordered Brown to contact sheriffs and city police chiefs to insure "cooperation" in highway patrolling and avoid "overlapping" patrols.

8. The State Aeronautics Department will fly several planes to aid traffic control in "congested" areas.

9. Some communications equipment volunteered by a telephone company may be used to control traffic and handle accidents.

Boyle said the National Guardsmen would be under the state police district commander's orders, but guardsmen on active duty "have the same powers as members of the agency they are serving and therefore will have powers of arrest and other state police powers."

THE STORY: The whaler Obis et. Then he wrote swiftly in the log book. "Sign this, Mr. Wilson," he said. "And you, Mr. Finn." "I ain't signing what I ain't read," Mr. Finn said. "It's a brief statement of what has happened," Naish said. "Read it with care. Let me make clear to you, though, that no good will come later to you if you destroy this log book. Or if by chance I should go over the side some night, and Mr. Bothwick after me. All that will be needed in any court of law is the testimony of the men who borrowed the money from you. I doubt that they'll testify in your favor."

"You're slick with the words," Mr. Wilson said, the pen gripped in his hand before he signed. "You've got book learnin' over and above Finn and me. What hankers you to sail in a whaler and treat us so?" "The learning you can get the same way I got mine," Naish said. His voice was softer; he was the victor now. "But there's no need to talk of such. What I want of you is absolute, a—ing, obedience. If I receive it, the end of the voyage what he, pene last night can be readily forgotten."

Mr. Wilson smiled at Mr. Finn and Finn smiled back. Then with great solemnity and with what Naish recognized as honest respect for him they took his hand. "You bout got us where you want us," Mr. Wilson said. "How's for startin' on them other fish at noon?" "Fine," Naish said.

With Blageen wan and concave at his side, Naish went into the hold in the morning. The steward had used a very basic method for the manufacture of liquor. He had half filled a keg with fresh water and added to it potato mash, potato peels, lemons and sugar and yeast, allowed the mess to ferment. Then he had drawn off the liquid through an old cambric shirt, called it grog and sold it as such. "I couldn't stand the bloody well boredom no more," Blageen said. "I'm used to the fast packets, I am. Travel in style from port to port."

Naish had picked up a piece of dunnage and used it against the keg. The staves gave; the liquor ran over the planks towards the bilges. "Is Alf really your nephew?" "No. No more than you are. But I didn't press him to come aboard. I wanted it on his own, the little demon."

"I'm locking you up in irons in the fore'd lazarette until I can bring you before a court and jury some where. I've known some low swine in my time, but you sound deep six for sure. How much did the fresh stores did you steal?" "About all," Blageen said. "To be continued."

Excavation for New York City's first subway was made on March 29, 1900, and it became operative on Oct. 27, 1904.

The honey bee is classified as a domestic insect, and is the only one so known.

The sums ranged from $2 to $7.

Naish slipped it in his shirt pocket.

Adm. Byrd Hoists U. S. Flag on 'Little America' Settlement

BAY OF WHALES, Antarctica (Delayed) — Rear Adm. Richard E. Byrd hoisted the U. S. flag here Wednesday on the site of the "Little America" settlement founded by his 1929 expedition.

The Stars and Stripes fluttered to the top of an improvised flagpole in bright sunlight at 4 p. m., while 24 members of the current U. S. naval expedition to the Antarctic stood at the hand salute.

The persons taking part in the ceremony were ferried ashore by helicopter from the icebreaker Glacier as it passed down the coast.

The original Little America settlement and another founded on the same site by an expedition in 1947 both had been swallowed by snow. The only trace of either one remaining was the top 8 feet or so of a 70-foot radio mast projecting above the gale-driven, hard-packed snow.

Stanford Trips Iowa; Illinois Wins, 102 to 66

By United Press
The Hawkeyes of Iowa, fifth ranked basketball team in the nation and defending Big Ten champion, took another nosedive Thursday night.
The Hawkeyes, who had met defeat only once before they wandered west for the holidays, lost their second Pacific Coast game in a row at the hands of Stanford, 54-52. The unbeaten Indians turned the trick with only two members of their first team on the floor.
Wisconsin was another Big Ten loser, but Northwestern, Illinois, and Michigan State carted off victories.
Iowa's pratfall was the feature game, however. The Hawkeyes built up a 7-point second half lead, but couldn't hold it before the pressing attack of little guard George Sellick and lanky Barry Brown.
Northwestern Wins One
The Indians went ahead 48-40, and although Iowa came storming back to close the gap to 2 points with 15 seconds left, that was the ball game.
Northwestern, winless in six previous starts, scored its first basketball victory of the season, defeating Dartmouth, 74-60. Dartmouth scrambled to an early 18-10 lead, but by half-time the Wildcats moved ahead 31-29 and after that they never headed back.
Illinois ran up a whopping 102-66 victory over visiting Drake for its

ROOM FOR NOBODY—Boston's Arnie Risen, right, tried to cut in on a ball-control squabble between teammate Ernie Barrett, center, and Philadelphia's Neil Johnston—but all he did was knock the ball away from both. Johnston came out of this National Basketball fracas with a bumped eye.

Large Crowd Expected to See Globetrotters Here Saturday Night

The visit to Harrisburg of the Harlem Globetrotters unit Saturday night continued today to be the topic of conversation in sports and other circles.
Advance ticket sales were moving fast. There was every indication that the crowd pouring into Davenport gym for the event starting at eight o'clock would be a big one.
The Globetrotter personnel for the trip to Harrisburg, where they will meet the Honolulu Hawaiians in an exhibition, has been announced, subject to change due to injuries, player releases or other factors beyond the control of the management.
Roster of Players
Here is the roster supplied the local group that is sponsoring the event to obtain funds for the summer baseball program in Harrisburg:
Flax Crops
Less than 20 per cent of the world flax crop is used for making linen. Most of the acreage is seed flax, grown for the manufacture of linseed oil and linseed cake.
First Woman Governor
Nellie Tayloe Ross was the first woman to be governor of any state of the Union, succeeding her husband, William Bradford Ross, as governor of Wyoming.
Coral Mass
The 1200-mile-long Great Barrier Reef, which lies off the northeast coast of Australia, is the largest mass of coral in the world.
Sixth win against one defeat. The Illinois led 39-31 at half-time, and then put on the pressure, connecting with 27 baskets out of 44 shots. High man for the game was the Illinois' junior center George Bon-salle, who racked up 24 points.
Spartans Beat Maryland
Michigan State chalked up the other Big Ten win by romping over Maryland, 95-75, at the opening of the Mid-Winter Basketball Festival at College Park, Md. State's forward Julius McCoy led his team to the win by scoring 30 points. It was State's fourth straight victory without a loss.
Tired from a day of traveling, the University of Wisconsin arrived in Berkeley to accept a 62-55 defeat at the hands of the University of California. Wisconsin center John Parker racked up 16 points for the Badgers, and played all but three minutes of the game as the lead changed hands six times.

Washington Wins Pontiac Tourney; Pinckneyville To Play Collinsville

By United Press
The unbeaten Panthers of little Washington high school moved into the top rank of Illinois prep basketball Thursday night with an 81-72 victory over rugged Alton to win the Pontiac holiday tournament.
On the way to the championship trophy, Washington beat New Trier, Chenoa and Lawrenceville, the latter in the Thursday afternoon semifinals. The closest margin in any of the four games for the Panthers was five points over New Trier. The Panthers now have 10 victories without a loss this season.
At the Kankakee holiday tournament, Lincoln showed it is back in form by taking the crown 59-53 from the host Kays. Lincoln was beaten by Springfield Lanphier and Springfield in pre-tourney games, but in the tourney trounced Ottawa and Glenbard before beating Kankakee.
Lincoln's hard-driving center Dave Cadwallader cut the cords for 16 points to lead Lanphier scorers, and Lincoln's outshot Kankakee 19 to 11 in free throws. The game was tied at the half 25-25, but Kankakee never led thereafter.
Cicero Morton Bows
At Centralia, the semifinalists today will be Pinckneyville, 63-50 winner over Cicero Morton; Collinsville, 78-63 victor over Litchfield; Herrin, which downed Salem 67-43; and Belleville, 63-58 over Centralia.
Collinsville's Terry Bethel, 6 feet 6 inch center, and Tom Jackson, 6-4 forward, got 49 points between them in the Kahok victory.
In the De Kalb tournament quarter-finals, it was De Kalb, Aurora West, Sycamore and Belvidere advancing. De Kalb pasted Rochelle 79-56 and Sycamore rocked Leyden 72-60 as the two top-seeded clubs won.
Tilden Tech of Chicago again was impressive at Paris, downing a good Clinton quintet 63-54. Clinton was down 34-24 at the half, but pulled within two points 44-42 at the end of the third quarter, then watched Tilden reserve center Jerry Walker come in to score 14 points.
Rich Has Close Call
Other Paris quarter-final winners were St. Ann, Mount Pulaski and Paris.
At the Egyptian tournament at Mount Vernon, the host Rams trounced Carbondale 70-63, and Edwardsville whipped West Frankfort 68-59.

Carbondale and West Frankfort Meet for Third

Edwardsville, conqueror of Harrisburg and West Frankfort, meets Mt. Vernon, tourney winner over Du Quoin and Carbondale, in the finals of the Egyptian Holiday basketball tournament at Mt. Vernon tonight at nine o'clock. Carbondale and West Frankfort will play for third place.
In last night's initial semifinal encounter, Manny Jackson and Governor Vaughn again led Joe Lucco's Edwardsville Tigers to a 58-51 win over Frankfort. Jackson tot 25 points and Vaughn 24.
The count was tied 14-14 at the end of the first quarter, but in the second period Edwardsville moved into the lead. The Tigers held a 32-27 margin at half-time and a 42-39 lead at the end of the third period.
The host Rams took a big lead over the Terriers to come out on top, 70-63. During the first quarter they piled up a 21-8 margin, then were outscored in the remaining three stanzas. Neal, with 21 points, led the winners, but Russ Martin of Carbondale took scoring honors with 26 points.

Tulsa Bids for National Honors by Capturing All-College Tourney Title

By United Press
Tulsa grabbed the spotlight in basketball's holiday tournament circus today, bidding for national honors by capturing the championship in the All-College Tournament—the same title that catapulted San Francisco to recognition a year ago.
The Golden Hurricane's 65-58 conquest of Oklahoma City in the only major final round of a tourney Thursday night overshadowed brilliant performances by such power teams as North Carolina, Utah, West Virginia, and Stanford.
Victory in this tourney, the nation's oldest, gave Tulsa an impressive 10-1 record and a string of six wins.
North Carolina, ranked fourth nationally, stole the show in the opening round of the Dixie Classic at Raleigh, N. C., by drubbing Villanova, 86-63. In tonight's semifinals, the Tarheels will face Duke, which whipped Wyoming, 71-54.
Tarheel Rivals Win
By contrast, North Carolina State, the Tarheels' arch-rival, ranked No. 3 nationally, had to struggle in the same show for a 59-54 win over Oregon State. State will meet Wake Forest, which upset Minnesota, 87-83, in overtime.
Utah, No. 6 nationally, blew a 13-point halftime lead but showed class in downing Marquette, 89-84, in the opening round of the Sugar Bowl Tournament at New Orleans. In the Sugar finals, Utah will face Notre Dame—which upset Alabama, 86-80.
West Virginia, title favorite in the Orange Bowl Tournament at Miami, gained the finals with a 70-60 win over Columbia. The Mountaineers thus qualified for a final-round game with Miami, Fla., which downed Tulane, 86-75.
Stanford wasn't in any tournament, but the Indians scored Thursday night's biggest upset as they beat Iowa, the nation's No. 5 team, 54-52, at Stanford. It was the third loss in six games for Iowa, the second straight on its West Coast visit.
Other Top Tourneys
In other leading tournaments: Southwest Conference—Final tonight: Rice-Southern Methodist. Rice, the title choice, downed Texas, 80-72, in Thursday night's semi-finals. SMU downed guest Southern California, 70-64.
Big Seven—Final tonight: Kansas-Iowa State. Kansas defeated Missouri 73-56. Iowa State upset Colorado, 55-52.
Richmond, Va., Invitational—Final tonight: Cincinnati-Richmond. Title choice Cincinnati handed Seton Hall its first loss, 82-81. Richmond breezed over William and Mary, 75-60. Army beat Rhode Island, 99-74.
Midwinter Tournament, College Park, Md.—Final tonight: George Washington-Michigan State. G.

PHILCO OFFICIALS AND DEALERS FROM THIS AREA gathered in Harrisburg Thursday evening for a dinner and business meeting and heard a report on the latest model Philco TVs and the promotional and advertising campaigns planned for the early part of 1956. Ken Cooper of St. Louis, third from right, vice president of Artophone Corp., distributor of Philco TVs, was in charge of the meeting. Many of the latest models of Philco TVs were on display and other models were described in detail by Mr. Cooper. "This spring we will offer the best line we have ever had," Mr. Cooper declared, revealing that top touch tuning, in the past available only on higher priced sets, would be available on Philco TVs selling for as low as $199.95. "We will have a set to fit any pocketbook and a color scheme for any home," Cooper stated. Dealers and their employees from five southern Illinois cities were in attendance at the meeting, held at the Kurto Country club, and enjoyed a steak dinner preceding the business meeting. Philco dealers and officials shown are Everett Collins and Clarence Barton of Benton, Granville Fry of Du Quoin, Vermont McDaniel of Harrisburg, Harry Johnson of West Frankfort, D. A. Johnson and R. A. Deitz of McLeansboro, Mel Boehm of St. Louis, Philco service manager; Dan Cagle of Pinckneyville, Artophone district salesman; Ken Cooper of St. Louis, vice president of Artophone; Charles Soudelet of Mt. Vernon, Artophone district salesman, and Mel Gayer of St. Louis, Philco district manager. The men are grouped around a model of the first color TV manufactured by Philco. Mr. Cooper, in discussing color TV, predicted it would be big business in the not too far distant future.

Tips on Traffic Safety

By
CHARLES F. CARPENTIER
Secretary of State

More than a few of our citizens are planning to bring in the New Year with a bit of holiday cheer. Some of them, however, will not stop at moderately toasting the year 1956. And of this number, unfortunately, there will be those who will drive their automobiles while under the influence of alcohol. If you must be behind a steering wheel during the late hours of New Year's Eve or the early morning hours of New Year's Day, be sure to drive cautiously and to be on the lookout for those drivers who just won't believe the fact that alcohol and gasoline do not mix.

Besides those who over-indulge, the motorist must also be on the alert for those who become heavy-eyed after a pleasant but long evening with friends. When one is having an enjoyable time with friends, the time seems to fly by and before anyone is aware of the hour it is very late—and that drive home seems to take an eternity. A tired motorist can be a dangerous one.

A copy of the completely new "Rules of the Road" booklet will be sent to you free upon request. Write to CHARLES F. CARPENTIER, Secretary of State, Springfield, Illinois.

Teachers' Union Claims Ike Avoids Recommendations

CHICAGO (AP)—Leaders of the American Federation of Teachers accused the Eisenhower administration today of trying to dodge the recommendations of the White House Conference on Education.

Edward F. Jerrow, union vice president, said present administration plans to meet the shortage of teachers and schools are "like trying to shoot a bear with a pop-gun."

And Union President Carl J. Megel charged that "the administration is trying to find a way out of the mandate given it by its own conference."

Megel, who attended the recent education conference, said "the Eisenhower administration thought it had the conference stacked before it started."

The federation's executive council Thursday approved recommendations that Congress appropriate at least one billion dollars annually for the next 10 years in grants in aid to states for public schools.

Taylor Receives Navy Certificate For Recruiting Aid

I. M. Taylor, manager of radio station WEBQ, yesterday was presented The Navy Recruiting Service Certificate of Thanks.

Presentation was made at the local studio by Leonard R. Wright, officer in charge of the St. Louis Navy Recruiting district. "For assistance in helping to build and maintain a strong, efficient Navy by the enlistment of the highest type young men of the Nation."

Several days ago Mr. Taylor received the Army's Certificate of Appreciation "for outstanding cooperation with the U. S. Army Recruiting Service in St. Louis." This award was made personally by Lt. Col. Allen M. Hunter, commanding officer of the St. Louis District Recruiting Service.

Raid a Bust at East St. Louis

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (AP)—St. Clair County authorities and Illinois highway patrolmen raided the Ranch House Tavern here but the raid was a bust.

No evidence of gambling was found and the nine persons found in the tavern were not held.

Officers had no search warrant since State's Atty. Richard T. Carter said none was necessary to enter a public place such as a tavern.

But the owner of the Ranch House refused to let the officers search a branch of the building which he said were living quarters.
